

PERKINS-GUN TOTER WAS HEIR TO $200,000

Robert, Sent to Bellevue, Son of Ulster County Dentist Who Left $1,500,000

Irving H. Roberts, who was arrested in Battery Place Wednesday while acting as a toter, was sent to Bellevue Hospital for observation. He is the son of the late Dr. Charles H. Roberts, a dentist of Poughkeepsie, Ulster county.

KING "JUST FELT" STIELOW GUILTY; NOW SURE OF IT

Man Who Recanted Confession of Murder Sticks to His Last Story.

By Sophie Irene Luch.

If ever I got to jail I hope they will send me to Alford. It is delicious. This is the last where I've been in jail. I was there for a while when I was a witness in the Stielow case. I was there when I was a witness in the Stielow case. I was there when I was a witness in the Stielow case.

PRISONER WHO RECANTS MURDER CONFESSION IS ENJOYING JAIL LIFE

IRWIN KING

He answered as he looked about him with a smile. "I was not surprised. Here he was in a room, large, comfortable, with a bed and a comfortable bed and chairs, lovely view from the window, and, well, I thought if King, the barkeeper and junk dealer, was ever so happy, I would have a veritable monarch of all he surveyed."

"Now, King, I just want you to tell me what made you change your mind between the confession and repudiation. It will be remembered that Mrs. Hamilton rode from Little Valley to Buffalo, accompanied by King, Detective O'Connell and a Sheriff, and that night he confessed to the murder."

He answered: "Well, it was this way. We didn't talk much about the murder in the automobile. But when we got to Little Valley we were waiting up and down in the corridor and she told me about the money. She always told me to look right at her and tell her about the Stielow matter."

"But why didn't you insist on her paying you the money first," I suggested. "Wasn't this the first time you ever saw this woman, and didn't you know you would run a chance of going to the electric chair, and was it worth $200 to take such a chance as that, when you made such a confession before reputable citizens of that section?"

"Well, I just took a chance," he answered. "But how were you to get the money from Mrs. Hamilton?" I questioned.

"Well, there was something said about a reward that was given to Newton, a detective that got Stielow, and it was to be returned, and I was to get some of it. When Mr. Knickerbocker and the Sheriff were bringing me back here, we stopped on the way for lunch, and I told the Sheriff I was a toter."

"What was your idea of Mrs. Hamilton's interest in him?" I asked. "I was in the car when he talked to her. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money."

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

in Shoe Polishes

Are easy to use — just apply the paste and rub. Liquid is not necessary. They produce a brilliant lasting shine and are adapted for use by all the family — children as well as grown up. No acid — will not crack the leather.

Keep your shoes neat
BLACK 10¢ WHITE 10¢ TAN 10¢

The F. F. DALLEY Co. Ltd., Buffalo, N.Y.

$1,000,000 FURNITURE SALE

Open An Account With Any Victor-Victrola from $15 to $350 or with Records and pay for it in small weekly or monthly payments. This $60 Victor-Victrola Outfit Consisting of $50 Victrola Choice of Mahogany, Golden Oak, Fumed Oak in Mission and $10 Worth of Records (Your Own Selection) Pay $3 on Delivery And the Balance $1 Weekly.

Let Us Start You Housekeeping Now Our three great Home Outfitting Stores offer their entire stocks at price reductions of almost one-half. Every article is up to our usual high standard of quality. Young married couples intending to start housekeeping should buy now — you save fully one-half, and if you desire credit we will make terms especially easy for you. We will hold your purchase, if you desire it, until you want it delivered, without any extra charges. SPECIAL SALE OF HIGH GRADE BED ROOM FURNITURE Dressers, Chests, Trunk Tables, Beds and complete Bed Rooms. In Mahogany, Walnut, Birch, Maple, Ivory, Jacobean Oak, Fumed Oak and Golden Oak. In hundreds of different patterns. They are all from our regular stock, but there are only one or two of a kind. Compare yourself by comparison that, whether you buy for cash or on credit, that our prices are always the lowest.

Our Prices Are Always the Lowest

Open An Account With Records If you already have a machine we will gladly open an account for you with the purchase of records. You are not required to buy a talking machine or any other appliance. We have every Victor Record made and we invite you to visit our Victor Department and hear your favorite selections. You are not obliged to buy. No stamps with Victor goods.

50c A Week delivers any article up to $3! LARGER AND SMALLER AMOUNTS IN THE SAME PROPORTIONS. Special Sale of Complete 2, 3, 4 and 5 Room Outfits All Ready to Start House-keeping. These outfits are complete in every detail. Every article is selected from our regular stock. Young married couples should early should avail themselves of this money saving opportunity. You save fully one-half, and if you want credit we will make terms especially easy for you.

Bring One Dollar to any of our three stores, select whatever you require to furnish a room complete and we will at once deliver your purchase to your home or pay the balance in Small Weekly or Monthly Payments. THIS LIBERAL OFFER REQUIRES No Club Fees No Interest Added No Extra Charges of Any Kind. You May Include Everything in Your Outfit Linens, Bed Sets, Curtains, Comfortables, Draperies, Rugs, Linoleums, Furniture for every room, Dining Room, Parlor, Lamp, Cut Glass, Kitchen Utensils, Refrigerators, Stoves, Talking Machines, Sewing Machines, Kodaks, etc. at the sale prices, without any extra charge of any kind.

OUR SPECIAL OUTFITS 3 ROOMS COMPLETE $89 4 ROOMS COMPLETE $98

OPEN SATURDAY EVENINGS UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK AT ALL THREE STORES 144-146 WEST 125th St. Between 7th and Lenox Aves. America's Greatest Furniture House 35 to 36th St. BLOCK 8th AVE. NEWARK STORE, 40-51 MARKET ST.

Ludwig & Co. 35 to 36th St. BLOCK 8th AVE. NEWARK STORE, 40-51 MARKET ST.

KING'S IDEA OF MRS. HUMIS- TON'S INTEREST IN HIM

He was in the car when he talked to her. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money."

"What was your idea of Mrs. Hamilton's interest in him?" I asked. "I was in the car when he talked to her. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money."

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

KING'S IDEA OF MRS. HUMIS- TON'S INTEREST IN HIM

He was in the car when he talked to her. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money."

"What was your idea of Mrs. Hamilton's interest in him?" I asked. "I was in the car when he talked to her. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money. He was talking to her about the money."

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

After the Sheriff had introduced me I asked "How are you, Mr. King?" "HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS TO PRISONER KING."

"Never was so happy in my life," he answered.

"What made you think that Stielow committed the crime?" I asked him. "It was just like this. The day after the murder was committed a man by the name of Grimes, or something like that, who has pictures enlarged, came into the hotel where I was and showed me a newspaper telling all about the murder. I concluded right there and then that Stielow had something to do with it."

"Do you know Grimes's first name?" I asked, to which he answered: "No." "What made you think so?" I asked (since Stielow was not arrested until a month after the murder was committed).

"Well, I just felt it," he said. (Stielow had never before been arrested). King confessed to Mrs. Grace Hamilton and six other witnesses that he murdered Phelps and his housekeeper, Miss Wolcott. This was at Little Valley, Cattaraugus county. A few days afterward he repudiated his confession before District Attorney Knickerbocker (who prosecuted Stielow), Sheriff Hartlett and others. This was in Albion, Orleans county, where he was taken by Knickerbocker.

District Attorney Knickerbocker accompanied me to the jail, where I was introduced to Sheriff Hartlett, who took me to King. After the Sheriff turned the key in the door I could scarcely believe that I was in a prison, except for a few bars over a nice large window that overlooked a beautiful green lawn. There sat King in a rocking chair that was covered with rugs, looking to and fro, a pile of newspapers on a table at the side of him.

FURS

Early Fall Models in
FUR COATS, EVENING WRAPS, STOLES
CAPES, SCARFS and MUFFS

Hanging from the less expensive popular furs of the season to the most valuable Selected Furs in Natural Black, Silver and Natural Blue Foxes, as well as Russian and Hudson Bay Sable

Established Nearly 75 Years

Baleh. Price & Co.

Fulton & Smith Streets.
Brooklyn, N.Y.

15 Minutes from Grand Central to Borough Hall Subway Station

ABRAHAM AND STRAUS

The Store Accommodating

WEATHER FORECAST
Fair today and tomorrow.

The Abraham & Straus Private Subway Entrance at Hoyt Street is quickly reached by Brooklyn Express, as follows, from:
24th St. (City) 51 min. 72nd St. 25 min. Grand Central 17 min. Brooklyn Bridge 9 min.
100th St. (Hoyt) 48 min. 125th St. 22 min. 14th St. 13 min. Bowling Green 5 1/2 min.

Store Opens at 9 A. M.
Closes at 6 P. M.

"La Canadienne" Among the Superb Paris-Copied Millinery

Offered in the French Salon at $14.50

One of Paris' famous modistes has discovered the charm that lies in the cap of the Canadian soldier-man. She has made this charm obvious to all in the transformation of it into an adorable beret that the Parisienne slips close down in the manner of Autumn, 1916. Just last week it was first seen in Paris. Already it is here.

With Such Dispatch the New Modes Appear in the Abraham and Straus Salons

And for this offering of the modes at the same time as they appear in Paris there is no premium of price.

Similar Models in Exclusive Shops Would Be $20 to $30

Made of exquisite velvets, Lyons, panne, hatters' plush. Lewis' conceptions in varied off-the-face models; Directoire turbans that give chic; Maria Guy's tricornes, with which she has set all Paris admiring—copied to the final touch. Others and others at the same price, $14.50.

Beautiful "Modiste-Made" Hats at $1.95 and $6.95 Fashioned to Wear With Tailored Suits

The wonderful things of Paris creation have inspired the deft hands of our modistes in the fashioning of these smartly simple models. With a dab of trimming, perhaps—but placed with artistry. Hundreds of different models—all the "last word" in style.

$5.50 Hatters' Plush or Velvet Sailors, $3.95

Children's and Misses' Velour Hats at $1.95, $2.95 to $5.95

French Salon, Magazine and Street Floors, Central Building

A Guide to Men's Fall Shopping

Long on Summer clothes and short on your Fall outfit?

That's the case with many men—Saturday will be their great day to catch up with their needs.

This Men's Store is ready for them; convenient to get to and to shop in; rich in new styles of good clothing of all sorts, from hats and overcoats to socks and shoes. Use this list for reference when you come shopping on Saturday:

SUITS

$15, $18.50, $20 to $30

Autumn styles—dark, unfinished worsteds in handsome striped effects. Silk mixtures, rough tweeds; plain colors. The product of splendid shops; models for younger and older men.

OVERCOATS

$14.75, $16.50 to $26.50

To wear from now until snow flies. Coats that will stand a smart shower; Chesterfields in blacks and Oxfords; most satisfactory selection. Raincoats, too, $7.95 to $25.

Second floor, Hoyt street.

SOFT HATS

$1.98 to $5

Friday, the 15th, is the deadline for straws. Thirty new blocks in Felt Hats here to pick from; fifteen shades—browns most popular. Flatter brims, welled, A. & S. Soft Hats, $1.95 and $3. Stetsons, better than ever, $3.50, $4.50. Derbies, also, $1.95 to $5.

Illustrated, the new Stetson Soft Hat at $4—becoming to most men.

NECKWEAR

48c, 95c, $1.45, $1.95

Colors are dark, subdued, rich. Weaves are varied—satin, Swiss silk, light but firm; 15 combinations of "college stripes"; splendid figured effects. A collection, in short, that is remarkable for good taste and variety. Many of the Scarfs have the temper-saving "stay-smooth" device; others the "slip-easy."

Marabou and Ostrich Scarfs: Fashionable Autumn Neckwear

Women love to wear them with frocks and suits because they are so ideally "the thing." Fine as down; featherweight; softening the contours of every face; just warm enough to be cozy during Autumn days.

Marabou for the Neck Strands, and Ostrich and Marabou for the Tails

Natural color, all black, natural and black with tails combined with white. Would be regularly $3.50. Priced $2.89.

$2.50 All-Ostrich Feather Boas, $1.97

Long, finely curled ostrich flues, thickly set. Black, white, many shades of gray, navy blue, Havana brown and other street colors.

$3.25 Ostrich Feather Boas at $2.50
Especially Fine Boas at $3.75 and $4.50

Street floor, Central Building

SHOES

$4 to $6.95

From complete Autumn lines we pick two for mention: At $4, black and mahogany calf, in three smart but comfortable models; fitted with O'Sullivan's rubber heels. At $6.95! Shoes of fine leather and workmanship, on fashionable, shape-retaining lasts.

GLOVES

A $2 Grade for $1.50

Meyer's make, and known as "Knitdown" or "Kantrip." Closed out on account of the advancing cost of leather. 300 pairs, in men's and cadet sizes; good shades of tan; at a 25% saving.

Street floor, East Building.